Inspiring Early Learning Conference 2018

Investing in Quality Peterborough is holding their annual conference on Saturday April 28th. There will be a variety of workshops from topics such as story telling, art, music, infant/toddler well being, self-regulation, and LGBTQ, with Dr Jean Clinton as the keynote speaker. This conference is priced reasonably and will be held at Sir Sandford Fleming College. Each year PFRC pays for two home child care providers to attend the conference. If you are interested, email Nancy at nancyd@pfr.ca and tell her why this opportunity interests you. More detailed information will be available soon.

Dealing with Multiple Age Groups

Registrants for this workshop will explore the unique set of challenges many home child care providers face; developing an engaging and stimulating environment when you are accepting children of different age brackets while balancing developmental consideration with guidelines. The facilitator of this workshop will offer concrete strategies to support child care providers in exploring ways to cope with such challenges.

Date: Monday, January 29, 2018

Time: 6:30 - 8:30 p.m.

Location: Antrim Family Hub, 201 Antrim St., Peterborough

Talking to Parents about Concerns

Speaking to parents regarding concerns can be intimidating. Join us for a conversation about strategies to utilize when trying to engage parents in meaningful dialogue about a developmental concern you may have regarding their child. Facilitator Michelle Erridge from Five Counties Children's Centre will offer participants in this workshop the opportunity to gain valuable insight into tried and true approaches on how to talk to parents about possible concerns in a sensitive manner. We will also chat about the parental perspective in this conversation, as well as offering links to community resources to further supports families to maintain a professional and supportive relationship.

Date: Tuesday, March 27, 2018

Time: 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Location: Antrim Family Hub, 201 Antrim St., Peterborough

Curriculum Talk

Ever wanted to find unique ways to captivate using loose parts, or engage parents in meaningful discussions about the thought processes behind what skills their child is trying to develop? Then you really need to come to this workshop.

Facilitator Susan Scoffin will lead participants through a series of discussions designed to enrich the understanding of what it means to create well-thought-out play-based learning environments that support the foundation of learning for children while making parents take notice and broaden your understanding too.

Facilitated by: Investing in Quality Peterborough.
